eLibrary Myanmar

Increasing access to knowledge for education and research

Through the EIFL eLibrary Myanmar project, faculty and students at a growing number of universities in Myanmar now have unrestricted online access to an impressive collection of high quality international journals, e-books and databases for the first time. Extensive training is also being provided to maximize the benefits of the new eLibrary for teaching, learning and research.

Funded by the Open Society Foundations Higher Education Support Program, backed by the Ministry of Education, and implemented by EIFL (Electronic Information for Libraries), the eLibrary Myanmar project, which began in December 2013, will run for six years until December 2019.

Our objectives

- Enable access to a comprehensive multidisciplinary package of over 55 international subscription e-resources through effective negotiations with publishers

- Increase the skills and capacity of librarians, including IT and information literacy training

- Empower librarians to build close links with faculty

- Raise awareness amongst faculty, researchers and students about the availability and benefits of e-resources, and improve skills and confidence through training

- Encourage faculty to embed the use of e-resources in the curriculum

Students at the University of Yangon learn to use online resources made available through the EIFL eLibrary Myanmar project.

- Review national copyright law and provide advice to ensure that revisions support libraries, education and access to knowledge

- Support visibility of local research outputs by creating institutional open access repositories

- Promote sustainability by encouraging libraries to work together through the Myanmar Academic Libraries Consortium (MALC)

What's in the eLibrary?

We have licensed more than 55 e-resources including 25,000+ full-text scholarly journals, 265,000+ full-text academic e-books, plus a vast range of other materials.

eLibrary Myanmar project partner institutions select e-resources from the list below based on the subjects they cover. To enable faculty and students to cross-search content from multiple e-resources via a single interface, we have also licensed the EBSCO Discovery Service for all partner universities.
